A year book represents many things to a variety of people. To the annual staff the year book represents these things: planning, pictures, creation, disappointments, headaches, deadlines, and completion. We hope in our completion of our task that it reveals the time and care we put forth. We've incorporated some new ideas that we hope you like. All of the staff tried hard in every way to make this Technician, the best.

The Technician staff would like to pay tribute to the following people:

Mr. CHAPMAN—Each year we rely upon his good judgement and patience. He never fails us. This year he helped us plan our new page design. His suggestions and helpfulness in all phases of our work made our job more enjoyable.

THE FACULTY—Time and time again we would ask for photos to be named, rooms to be used, schedules to be interrupted. All of our teachers cooperated to meet our demands. This helped our photographers and editors to meet deadlines.

THE PHOTOGRAPHERS—Both our studio men and student photographers have met all occasions. The variety of photos are the results of many trips made by Werkema. The students covered athletic and school events, capturing off guard poses. Without their efforts we would have no yearbook.

We, the staff, have completed this annual. We've tried new designs and new layouts. Many ideas failed, but we kept trying. We want the students to appreciate their Technician and to realize all of the efforts that so many people had to put forth in that it, "The '62 Technician", became a reality.

Dedication

With complete sincerity and enthusiasm we dedicate our 1962 Technician to Mr. Paul Jaquish.

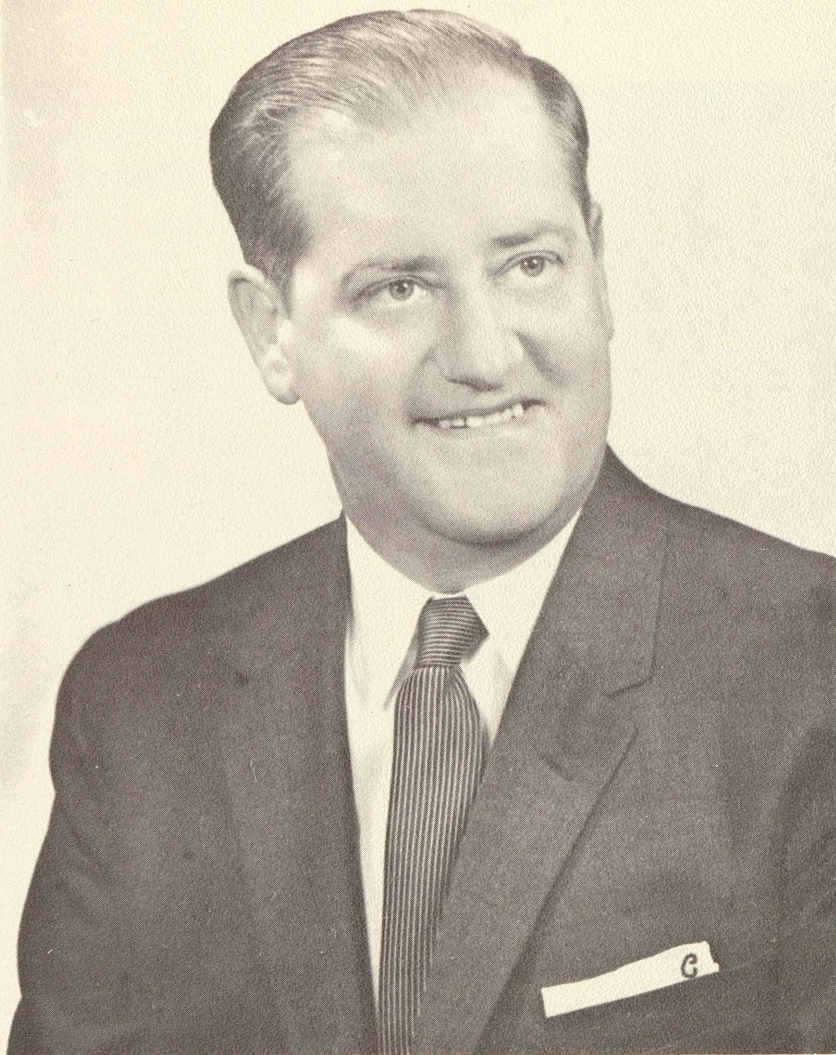

Paul Jaquish, better known as "Jake", to his colleagues is in essence the perfected teacher. His patience and guidance, during the thirty-six years he has been here, has resulted in many a student finding success as an apprentice, a journeyman in the field of Patternmaking!

While teaching has been his favorite interest, he has had other occupations. He has been assistant principal, Supervisor of war training, and a member of the Vocational Advisory Committee of Patternmaking for the United States Office of Education. Although he has held these other occupations; his favorite one is still teaching.

In his own words he says "A wood shop is a great place to acquire one's share of public work." His shop was a mecca during the depression when people had no money to get things repaired elsewhere. You name it; he has repaired it.

His favorite aspect of teaching here has been the making of plaques, tablets, chrome plate patterns and trophies for awards at our athletic events.

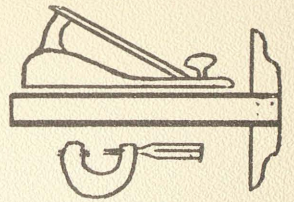

For his continuing efforts to turn out excellent patternmaking students, we find it very fitting to dedicate our '62 Technician to Mr. Paul Jaquish.

The office on any school can be compared to the hub of a wheel. The man behind the office, the principal, directs most school activities from this hub. Mr. Chapman serves as our director. Any time of the day he will be called upon to serve his teachers or students. He meets these duties with energy and enthusiasm. One has the feeling that no matter if a problem is large or small, he will be able to help. He acts with sureness and wisdom as he exercises his tasks. His direction is helping to build our school stronger and better with each successive year.
